

Donors Add Inspiration and Motivation

The Huntington Boys and Girls Club Brighten the Way to Parkview Huntington Pediatric Rehabilitation Unit

When a child comes to Parkview Huntington Hospital, they want the same thing you do: to feel safe and comfortable. Children of all ages should feel the warmth and sincerity of the care they receive and this can be difficult surrounded by empty, unfamiliar walls. Generosity from local donors like you helped bring this warmth and sincerity back to the halls of Parkview Huntington Hospital.

In 2013, the Parkview Huntington Pediatric Rehabilitation unit moved from its space on the hospital's main floor to a new, larger space on the lower level that used to be a storage room. As pediatric programs grow, more space is needed to better treat patients. The hallway to the new space was stark and staff wanted to make the space more open and inviting for the young patients.

Now, due to generous giving from the Huntington community, artwork adorning the walls of the hallway to the Pediatric Rehabilitation unit helps bring a smile to the young patients who come in for appointments.

Holly Sale and Angela Ellsworth, artist-in-residence for the LaFontaine Arts Council in Huntington, express their excitement for the newly displayed artwork.

“We wanted to add large pictures that would be child friendly, and also inspire and motivate them to achieve their goals for improvement in therapy,” said Holly Sale, the Director of Rehab and Wellness/Physicians Specialty Clinic/Service Excellence at Parkview Huntington Hospital said.

To pay for the special artwork, Sale contacted the Parkview Huntington Foundation. Money from the Foundation's Rehab and Wellness Fund was used to leverage matching donations from the Huntington County Community Foundation. The new artwork in the hallway is not merely seen as decorative - each piece tells a story and helps motivate patients.

The artwork was created by members of the Huntington Boys and Girls Club, under the direction of local artist Angela Ellsworth. Boys and Girls club members created their own smaller paintings, which were then incorporated into a larger piece of artwork in a lenticular structure – meaning that a different image will appear depending on where the viewer is standing and whether they stand to the left or the right of the piece.

“We've seen huge benefits,” Sale noted. “These are large, beautiful, inspiring pieces of artwork that greet children and parents when they come in for pediatric rehab. It really cheers the space up. It was a great cooperative effort.”

Local generosity from donors has made it possible to provide a welcoming environment for children receiving rehab treatment at Parkview Huntington.

Your Generosity Directly Touches Lives

Local Nurse Helps Provide Hope

With a simple gift to the Parkview Foundations, you have the potential to touch many lives in many ways. Huntington County resident, Jennifer Brososky, is an Emergency Room nurse and a donor to the Parkview Huntington Foundation. She knows that her donations will go toward helping those in her community who truly need it.

“I like that I am able to designate where I want my money to go,” Jennifer said. “Initially, I had been giving to United Way, but I decided that it was better to give back to a system that I know gives back to other people, a system that I already work for.”

Jennifer believes programs like the Medication Assistance Program, which provides access to medication for those individuals who cannot afford it, are great examples that show how Parkview is committed to using her donations to directly help patients in the Huntington community.

“Giving through the Foundation has helped a lot of people get medications and treatments that they could not otherwise afford, so that’s one big way that Parkview helps,” Jennifer noted. She also appreciates that the funding provided by Foundation donors, provides support for new and important equipment patients need.

“They are also able to get equipment to different departments that might not otherwise be able to pay for it,” she said.

Your generosity heals. It heals not only the donor, but the recipient as well. As Jennifer says, “One donation touches more than just one or two patients – it touches a lot of lives.”
